The acquisition and intended subsequent merger will create a strong and competitive balance sheet for Access Bank in Kenya, positioning us to be well-placed to promote regional trade finance and other cross border banking services in the East African Community ("EAC") and broader COMESA region. The proposed combination with Access Bank Kenya would undoubtedly propel Access Bank into a strong contender in the Kenyan market with enhanced capacity to play a more impactful role in the growth of the Kenyan economy while delivering increased profitability for our shareholders."

Mr. Herbert Wigwe, the Group Chief Executive of Access Corporation, also added:

"This growth transaction being implemented in Kenya represents the relentless focus and execution of our strategic objectives within our banking subsidiary even as we grow the other businesses within Access Corporation's core segments. The acquisition of Sidian represents a significant step-up in scale and potential for Access Bank in Kenya which represents our largest market and trade corridor in East Africa. The significant increase in scale and customer base presents us with enormous opportunities to support growth in the various ecosystems we are building in our trade and payment business. The economies of scale that derive therefrom will continue to drive and enhance contributions to all stakeholders."

This transaction is subject to the fulfillment of conditions precedent including regulatory approvals in Kenya and Nigeria.
